

GB Corp (GBCO.CA) — Bibliography & input register

Companion to the valuation study refresh of 19 August 2026

READ FIRST

Every number in the study and the workbook traces to a row in this document. Inputs are organised in four layers, from the inside out: COMPANY (the subject's own issued statements, releases and investor materials — the only admissible source for its reported figures), COUNTRY (sovereign yields, inflation, policy rates, currency, country-risk tables), INDUSTRY (market prints and peer marks, context only), and GLOBAL (rates and supply-chain conditions). A value with no source and date does not enter the model; where a needed figure is not disclosed, the gap itself is recorded below rather than silently bridged.

Judgements — and what would overturn each

Judgement	Basis	What would overturn it
The June round (USD 1.4bn) anchors the base framing of the MNT-Halan stake; the company's book anchors the bear framing; the two are never averaged	an arm's-length, bank-led first close outweighs an equity-method carrying value the reviewer could not verify	the second closing pricing below USD 1.4bn; audited accounts marking the stake down; any secondary sale below the round
Gross margin carries exactly one more year of the measured compression, then the cost-to-price relationship holds flat	one year of compression is measured (15.5% to 14.3% first halves); a compounding extension is a story, and the localisation offset is real but unquantified	FY27 automotive gross margin printing below 12.6% or above 14.0%
The effective tax rate glides from 38% to the statutory 22.5% by FY30	the excess over statute is unshielded regional losses; management guides the Jordanian drag ending from Q4-2026	regional losses still distorting the FY27 tax line
Working capital runs at 23.0% of revenue gliding to 21.0%	the last-twelve-month measured ratio, anchored on five disclosed quarterly snapshots; FY25's 28.5% year-end was the pre-buying outlier	the FY26 year-end ratio printing above 26%
The marginal cost of debt is the disclosed 20.82% average on the EGP book	essentially the whole book floats (43.5bn variable), so the current average IS the marginal rate; short tenor against a 19% corridor explains sitting under the 10-year	a new fixed-rate issue materially above; the corridor re-tightening
The debt book is carried 90% local / 10% dollar	the split is not disclosed; total dollar liabilities including trade payables bound the dollar share at 17%, and dollar deposits offset most of it	disclosure of a larger dollar tranche
Currency and inflation glide paths (8%->5% depreciation, 12%->8% inflation)	the realized 6.8% depreciation since July and the 14.9% July print, converging on the policy trajectory	a step-devaluation; inflation re-accelerating past 20%
GB Capital's operating leg is worth its book (6,267mn) at the centre	adjusted returns of 13.5% sit below the cost of equity, against 30%+ book growth and 100% provision coverage; the local peer trades at 9.4x earnings	sustained returns above 20% (re-rate above book) or a credit event (below)
Capital-structure weights pair the group's market equity with the automotive segment's own debt	the lending platform's funding belongs to its loan book, which is valued as a separate leg — mixing it into the automotive discount rate double-counts	segment-level market values becoming observable (a stake sale or listing)
Second-half volumes follow last year's measured seasonal split	the 2025 halves are the only clean seasonal yardstick; three launches support the second half	the third-quarter print falling far off the implied path

Negative results — searched, not found

What was sought	Where	Outcome
Per-tranche currency split of borrowings	statement notes on borrowings and risk	not disclosed; bounded from the currency-exposure table and flagged
Functional cost detail below the by-nature note	the statement notes	not disclosed; ratios anchored on the half's actuals and held
MNT-Halan financial statements for the period	the disclosure set; public record	not available — the reviewing auditor states it was not provided them either; the carrying value is therefore unverifiable from outside
Trade or sanction actions touching Egyptian auto imports or the Bajaj/Hyundai/Changan supply chains	press sweep, 19-Aug-2026	nothing found
A dated, primary print of the FY-level tires-versus-parts split for 2025	the release set used for the July study	not separately disclosed; the trading line is modelled as one
BYD or further Chinese-brand Egypt entry on hard evidence	press sweep	market-entry chatter only; carried as a priced risk factor, not a driver

Aggregator discrepancies

- Contact Financial's market capitalisation is quoted anywhere between EGP 4.5bn (07-Jul date) and EGP 6.6bn across services on different dates. Peer multiples are context only in this study; no subject figure relies on an aggregator.
- One bond-data service's Egypt 10-year page rendered placeholder dashes with no values; the quote was taken from a second service and dated. The two sources were not in conflict — one was simply empty.
- Dogus Otomotiv's price-to-book of 0.62 sits on an inflation-restated Turkish book value; it is not comparable to an Egyptian book and is quoted with that caveat.
